

October 1, 2026

To Whom it May Concern:

Thank you for reaching out and sharing your questions regarding the IEEPA tariff charges. We want you to know we appreciate your request and fully understand the importance of clarity around this issue.

In February 2026, the Supreme Court of the United States issued a ruling that the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (IEEPA) does not grant the President authority to impose tariffs. Tariffs imposed pursuant to Section 301, Section 232, Section 122, and other congressionally authorized trade statutes remain in force and were not implicated by the Court's decision. U.S. Customs and Border Protection is developing and implementing the Consolidated Administration and Processing of Entries ("CAPE") refund program for IEEPA duties in phases, which are underway but remain incomplete.

We are committed to keeping you informed and will provide updates as soon as additional direction becomes available. Please rest assured that transparency is a priority for us, and we will communicate any developments regarding the IEEPA tariff charges as soon as we know more.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "J. Levine", written in a cursive style.

Josh Levine
Vice President- Global Operations, Quality and Compliance